SIZZLING FACTS

Every housewife knows that on bake days many little odd duties must be neglected because she must give up more time in the kitchen. Are you not wasting time? Other duties call you, then, too; why bother when you can buy a delicious loaf of

GROCERS' BAKING COMPANY

(Incorporated)

In Kentucky and the firm of Barr & Co. became a reality. In 1893 Judge Alex. P. Humphrey became associated with the firm and the name was changed to Barr, Crockett & Humphrey. This continued until Judge Barr went on the Federal bench in 1899. Judge Barr at once took high rank as a Federal Judge. It is said that the average country lawyer who often fears the Federal Court room and the austerity of the Federal Judge, always felt free and easy in Judge Barr's court. He was always kind and courteous to the advocates before him.

Admirable Conduct of Court.

Dealing with the mountaineers for violating the internal revenue laws, thousands of times before him during his judgeship, he was always firm, but kind, to those whom he had to punish. He read human nature well and often he put men and women on their honor in his dealings with them as Judge of the District Court. He was loved by the country lawyers who often fear the Federal Court room and the austerity of the Federal Judge, always felt free and easy in Judge Barr's court. He was always kind and courteous to the advocates before him.

There was universal regret over the State when Judge Barr retired from the bench in 1899. He was succeeded March 2, 1899, by Judge Walter Evans. Judge Barr was over 60 years of age when he retired. He was said to leave the bench, but he knew that his age was against him and that he would have to begin to husband his strength. It is said that the day he left the bench was a memorable one in the history of the Federal Court at Louisville. Many attorneys were there and court officials. It is said that when Judge Barr retired, his farewell words were not a dry eye in the chamber, the Judge himself shedding tears.

After leaving the Federal bench Judge Barr opened up a law office, but a year later he suffered a stroke of paralysis and was unable to practice active business again. In 1899 Judge Barr was the Republican county election commissioner serving with Judge Arthur G. Caruth and Fred Horst. It is said that Judge Barr was very much humiliated when the Democratic Election Commissioners barred out a large number of election officers the night before the election and appointed others. This was a great blow to the service done by Judge Barr.

Republican, But Not a Politician.

Politically Judge Barr was always a Republican, but he never took an active part in local politics, even before he was appointed on the Federal bench. He never ran for an office, but he always took great pride in the welfare of the city of Louisville. He was said to have been the father of the Sinking Fund Commission. He acted as president for many years, and would never accept a cent for his services. He retired from the Sinking Fund when he was appointed on the Federal bench. Judge Barr was always considered a good business man, at least a man who possessed much foresight in the matter of finance. He was said to have been a director of the National Bank of Kentucky. When he was appointed Federal Judge he severed all his business relations, so far as holding office in corporations was concerned. During the time he was a director of the Bank of Kentucky he gave the institution much of his attention and the officers and stockholders had much confidence in his business sagacity and ideas of finance. He was said to be a director in the Cave Hill Cemetery Company.

Counted Friends By Thousands.

It was from his personal and social life that Judge Barr shone the brightest. His friends were counted by legions and he was charitable often to the poor. He was said to have been a human being in distress. His mind was a rich store of intellectual wealth and it naturally lent a charm to his presence. He was clean in his thoughts and conversation and no person ever conversed with him that he or she did not leave his presence with the impression that they had been benefited. He loved home and he loved to be thoroughly domestic in all his tastes and never cared for modern club life.

"I never knew a man for whom I had a higher admiration than Judge Barr," said Judge Alex. P. Humphrey. He was about as perfect a man as they get to be on this earth. As a man he was always kind, firm and of commanding presence. He was an able

OUTLOOK IN 1930 CHEERFUL.

Washington, Dec. 31.—The forthcoming report of the Government receipts and expenditures for the month ending to-day will show a decrease in the receipts as compared with December last year of $8,529,182, and in increase in expenditures of $9,381,414, making the net loss for the month $1,852,232. The largest decrease in the receipts is from customs, where the loss is $6,585,369. Internal revenue shows a decrease of $2,768,645, and miscellaneous receipts an increase of $1,135,482. The several items of expenditures show an increase in civil and miscellaneous of $3,500,000; in war an increase of $1,500,000; in navy an increase of nearly $4,000,000. For customs there was a decrease of $6,000,000. For public works the expenditures for the month were nearly double those for December, 1929, the increase being from $4,843,711 to $8,399,000. The receipts and expenditures during the last few days of the present month do not show any material improvement when compared with those for the earlier days in the month.

Resolutions of Regret.

The directors of the Cave Hill Cemetery Company will hold a meeting to-day to adopt a resolution of regret on the death of Judge Barr, who was for many years a valuable member of the board. Several of the directors of the company are members of the city of which Judge Barr was a director will adopt resolutions of respect at special meetings either to-day or to-morrow.

A meeting of the Judges and members of the Louisville bar will be held to-day to discuss the death of Judge Barr. The State Court room at the customhouse in honor of the memory of Judge Barr, members are urged to attend the meeting.

The funeral will take place at 2:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon from the fourth-avenue Presbyterian church, which Judge Barr was a member. The services will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. Frank Lewis, assisted by the Rev. Charles R. Hemphill. The burial in Cave Hill cemetery will be private. The pallbearers will be selected this morning by John W. Barr, Jr.

LOUISVILLE INVESTMENT COMPANY GIVES FORMAL NOTICE TO COMMISSIONER.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 31.—(Special.)—Investment Commissioner Folk received notice to-day from W. H. Gregory, president of the Citizens' Life Insurance Company of Louisville, announcing that the company would withdraw from this State after December 31. This is a result of the laws passed by the Legislature last year forbidding companies issuing special contracts for the sale of stock or anything in connection with or as an inducement to insurance.

The Citizens' Life has been writing what are known as special contracts in certain parts of its territory and has also been selling stock of the company to policyholders in connection with policies, it is understood.

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 31.—(Special.)—W. S. McChesney, Sr., of this city, received a telegram to-day announcing the death of his father, W. S. McChesney, Sr., at Pensacola, Fla., last night at 11:15 o'clock. Mr. McChesney was eighty-two years old and for more than fifty years had been a prominent citizen of Lexington. He was the father of W. S. McChesney, Jr., who is now in Lexington. Mr. McChesney, Sr. was a member of the Lexington Chamber of Commerce and was a director of the Lexington National Bank. He was a member of the Lexington Athletic Club and was a member of the Lexington Golf and Country Club. He was a member of the Lexington Yacht Club and was a member of the Lexington Hunt Club. Reassuring Returns.

The returns as tabulated by States are also reassuring as to the general condition. There is not one State which shows a decrease in the percentage of national bank deposits. The most important significance of the figures is that the readjustment of the currency has been accomplished with few bank failures. Although the central reserve cities have received through currency operations a net gain of $10,000,000, the reserve paid down to 22 per cent. without the failure of a single bank in one of the central reserve cities.

Minor Lexington Matters.

Nearly half a million pounds of tobacco were sold to-day at the Lexington warehouse at prices ranging from 10 to 15 cents per pound. The sale was a success and all of it could not be sold during the auction hours.

Comparison With '29 Panic.

Contrast this with the panic of 1929, when 150 national banks failed and of these 150 four never reopened. The total loss of national bank deposits in 1929 was $1,200,000,000. The total loss of national bank deposits in 1929 was $1,200,000,000. The total loss of national bank deposits in 1929 was $1,200,000,000.

The Clearings of the Lexington Banks.

For the year just ended show a decrease of $1,000,000 from the year 1929. All the months of the year 1929, however, show an increase over 1928, except November and December.

Retrenchment.

We shall have to go through a period of retrenchment and liquidation, but there is reason to believe it will not be as severe as it has been in other times. Economy and self-denial are not pleasant, but they are necessary as well as individual. We have been going too fast in the past. We have been going too fast in the past. We have been going too fast in the past.

STRONG LETTER FROM WILSON

Peace Bonds For Men Who Threaten Others.

OFFERS AID FROM THE STATE.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 31.—(Special.)—Hardly a day has passed since Gov. Wilson assumed the duties of Chief Executive of the State that he has not received letters from officials of various counties in the State asking his advice as to the best methods to pursue in putting down lawlessness in connection with the tobacco outrages, and a letter mailed by him to-day to a county official is a sample of all answers made by him to the requests for information.

When this letter was first received by the Governor several days ago he delayed answering it until after he had submitted the questions to the Attorney General and secured that official's opinion on the power that is vested in a County Judge and Sheriff and when this opinion was received by the Governor to-day he immediately answered the letter and inclosed a copy of that opinion.

Require Peace Bonds.

Attorney General Hays held in his opinion that a County Judge is vested with power and given the authority to issue warrants for the arrest and to require a peace bond for any person or persons when a complaint under oath has been filed with the County Judge by any one that they have been threatened or that their property is in danger of destruction by any persons as indicated in the complaint.

EASIER MONEY
AND CONFIDENCESeem To Be Near At Hand
Throughout Country.Indications Point To the RestorationOf Normal Conditions In the Business World.

ANNUAL REVIEW OF TRADE.

New York, Dec. 31.—The withdrawal of $125,000,000 from a few large trust companies, precipitating a season of hoarding and sending currency to a premium at a time when it was most needed throughout the country, is credited in R. G. Dun & Co.'s annual review of trade, published tomorrow, with having been one of the great factors in turning the year 1907 from its promise of new records in prosperity to a closing period of financial disturbance that causes many plans for future extensions of business to be either abandoned or postponed. The restoration of normal conditions, the review declares, depends upon easier money and a revival of confidence, both of which seem nearer to-day than at any time since October, when the stringency began. While failures were frequent during the last quarter of the year, the review points out that if the comparison is carried back to previous periods of distress, there is much cause for congratulation in the insolvency returns. The review says in part:

The year 1907 started under auspices that seemed bright beyond precedent and the movement of trade attained a velocity that constantly promised new records of prosperity. For almost ten months statistics of production, bank exchanges, railway earnings and other measures of commercial activity compared favorably with any previous year and in many instances the total for the twelve months was never equaled.

Products of the farm surpassed all earlier records and created a surplus compensating for smaller crops of some cereals and cotton than in former years. Immigration and foreign commerce both exceeded any previous year, gold in the treasury rose to $850,000,000 and the amount of money in circulation per capita became greater than ever before, despite a contraction in the estimate of $100,000,000 and an increase in population to over 80,000,000.

Change In Conditions.

Conditions changed radically during the last ten weeks of 1907, the financial disturbance that started in October unsettling confidence so completely that currency hoarding and the suspension of business were common. Failures were larger than at any time since the crisis of the previous decade, and a number of banks closed, some of them after a comparatively short life. Orders were canceled and new contracts came to the mills so slowly that the production of steel and iron was materially curtailed. This condition culminated at the end of the year, when the possibility of a further extension of the movement, but it is estimated by well-placed bankers that the cash withdrawn from New York banks alone amounted to $125,000,000 and perhaps four times as much throughout the country.

Hoarding of Money.

Probably the year might have ended without any serious hoarding of money had it not been for the heavy withdrawal of deposits from a few large trust companies that precipitated a season of hoarding. No accurate figures are available regarding the extent of this movement, but it is estimated by well-placed bankers that the cash withdrawn from New York banks alone amounted to $125,000,000 and perhaps four times as much throughout the country.

Iron and Steel.

Changes in the iron and steel industry during 1907 were more striking than elsewhere, particularly in respect to the volume of production. During the early part of the year there was a gradual increase in output, the weekly capacity of blast furnaces constantly establishing new records until the high point was reached on July 1, with a total of 23,170 tons.

FORMER NOTABLE FEDERAL
JOHN WATSON BARR.

John Watson Barr, a former notable federal judge, died at an advanced age. He was a prominent figure in the legal community and had served in various judicial capacities. His death is a significant loss to the legal profession.

Prosperity of Farmers.

Although in many cases the size of crops in 1907 fell below some preceding years, high prices made the return to the farmer much larger than ever before. To some extent short crops in other countries accounted for the high prices, but the fact that the farmer was willing to pay more than $1 per bushel during the closing months of the year is a testimony to the prosperity of the farming community.

Failures were larger than at any time since the crisis of the previous decade, and a number of banks closed, some of them after a comparatively short life.

Cotton Crop.

Cotton has ruled at a high position throughout the year, while the latest statistics of the crop indicate a yield of 12,000,000 bales, or 10 per cent. less than the best record established in the previous year. The old crop year ended on August 31, with the largest total ever harvested, and with exports exceeding all other years. The new crop year is well advanced, and the high average price of 17 cents per bale, which this year raised the total value of exports to $200,000,000, is a mark of the prosperity of the cotton industry.

Hoarding of Money.

Probably the year might have ended without any serious hoarding of money had it not been for the heavy withdrawal of deposits from a few large trust companies that precipitated a season of hoarding. No accurate figures are available regarding the extent of this movement, but it is estimated by well-placed bankers that the cash withdrawn from New York banks alone amounted to $125,000,000 and perhaps four times as much throughout the country.

Iron and Steel.

Changes in the iron and steel industry during 1907 were more striking than elsewhere, particularly in respect to the volume of production. During the early part of the year there was a gradual increase in output, the weekly capacity of blast furnaces constantly establishing new records until the high point was reached on July 1, with a total of 23,170 tons.

DELAY OWING TO COST.

Washington, Dec. 31.—[Special.]—The Government is going out on the business of guaranteeing breakfast foods, soothing syrups, tooth powders, pills and the like. The Government has not really been in the business, but a little label which dealers have been sticking on their goods has created that impression. This doesn't mean that the pure food and drugs act is going to be repealed, but it does mean that some misunderstandings that have arisen in connection with its enforcement are to be corrected. The many people have not an idea that the Government is guaranteeing that one breakfast food will make you fat, and another will make you lean, a certain emulsion will make your hair grow, and a particular compound will cause your complexion to brighten.

It happens this way: When the pure food act became effective it was agreed that responsible manufacturers might guarantee their goods to the dealer, and that in consideration of this the dealer should be relieved of responsibility, which the manufacturer assumed. In case of violation of the act, this guarantee by the maker was indicated in the officially prescribed label: "Guaranteed under the food and drugs act of June 30, 1906."

Blamed the Government.

This, of course, meant that it was guaranteed by the maker to comply with the law. But the consumer got a notion that it was guaranteed by the Government to do what the other parts of the label said. When it didn't produce hair on a bald head, or cure dyspepsia, or remove corns, people began to blame the Government, and it was nearly bad politics.

The Food Law Board looked into the matter and decided to change the regulations and the label. The manufacturers were asked to drop this sentiment out of the label, but it developed that many millions of labels had been printed, in some cases in six or seven colors, and at an expense of many thousands of dollars. It was decided to let the old labels remain, but to have the manufacturers agree upon a date at which the misleading legend shall disappear. The date has not been fixed yet, but it will be made as early as possible.

Encouraging Reports From New York State Banks.

New York, Dec. 31.—The published returns from fifteen of the largest New York State banks outside of Greater New York, in response to the call from the State Banking Department on December 15, are attracting attention in financial circles here as reflecting conditions generally throughout the State. The fifteen banks whose figures are available are all included in the list of twenty-seven up-State institutions which have deposits of more than $1,000,000. The reports show a decidedly healthy condition of affairs up-State, one of the most interesting features being that while the banks have increased their cash reserve holdings by more than 20 per cent. since August 22 last, several of the larger institutions have been able, in addition to this, to largely extend their deposits in the approved reserve banks of New York city, enabling the latter to extend their helpfulness to the distressed or weakened centers during the recent crisis.

Appeal To Interstate Commission.

The Black Mountain Coal Land Company, of Bristol, Tenn., and other companies in Lee county, Va., have appealed to the Interstate Commerce Commission against the Southern railway, the Virginia and Southwestern and the Black Mountain, alleging unlawful and unjust discrimination in the matter of furnishing cars and unreasonable charges for the transportation of coal. The Interstate Commission is now considering the appeal.

QUIT WISCONSIN.

Life Insurance Companies Abandon Millions of Dollars of Business.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Milwaukee, Wis., says: Seven more life insurance companies, carrying $3,000,000 in policies in Wisconsin, yesterday determined to quit the State. The companies claim they are unable to meet the requirements of the new insurance laws made effective. The companies are: Pacific Mutual Security Life and Annuity, Columbia National, Federal Union Mutual, Des Moines Life, Security Mutual, and Wisconsin Life.

Thousands Return To Work.

Milwaukee, Mass., Dec. 31.—Three thousand glass bottle blowers have returned to work in the glass industry here after a shut-down of ten days. That there will not be a stop in any of the local plants before July 1 is very probable, as the companies claim they have never been rushed with orders at present. Their only present difficulty is in securing good help.

Serious Impairment Alleged In Mutual Reserve's Financial Condition.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 31.—Superintendent Otto Kelsey, of the State Insurance Department, announced to-night that he had received the report of Nathan B. Hadley and Charles Hughes, giving the result of their examination into the affairs of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company.

Nearly $213,000,000 In Duties Collected At New York.

New York, Dec. 31.—In spite of the recent financial depression the port of New York collected $212,997,925 in duties during the year just closed, an increase of $3,131,018 over 1906. The above figures were given out by Collector of Customs Frederick A. Coudert, who said there was a falling off of nearly $8,000,000 in November and December, the months immediately following the financial depression as compared with the rest of the year.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 31.—The Oregonian to-day says that unless present plans miscarry, the Oregon Trust and Savings Bank, which on August 21 failed for nearly $2,500,000, will be reopened by the German-American Bank of this city and merged with the latter institution. The plan is said to hinge on the obtaining of an order from the courts which will enable the German-American Bank to pay off the Oregon Trust depositors in installments.

The Safest And Best Investment You Can Make Is In Real Estate Loans

The management of the KENTUCKY TITLE SAVINGS BANK has had 20 years' experience in lending money on real estate—having lent millions of dollars in that time—and not a dollar in principal or interest has been lost.

The best form of real estate loans is represented by KENTUCKY TITLE SAVINGS BANK MORTGAGE BONDS, issued in denominations of $100, $500 and $1,000. They are the direct obligations of the KENTUCKY TITLE SAVINGS BANK, specifically secured by first mortgages on Kentucky real estate, on deposit with the FIDELITY TRUST CO.; title and priority of lien guaranteed by the KENTUCKY TITLE CO.; bearing 6% interest, payable semi-annually. For sale at par, with accrued interest, yielding the investor 5% net.
